This is in order to promote opportunistic collegiate interaction, relationship building and identification of synergies and opportunities for collaborations between the international groups that are meeting and local/regional stakeholders that may be present during the week.
- However, please also note that some of the meetings will be closed and will only involve group 'members' – this is due to the nature of discussions to take place, being either of a business or private nature.
- To enquire about possible attendance at individual meetings please refer (by email) any requests for attendance as an observer to the 'principal contact persons' listed in the table below for the respective meetings in question.

ATTACHMENT 4:Information on Goa and Bogmalo

Goa and Bogmalo

Goa is located on the west coast of India and is split into two districts North and South Goa. Panaji is the state capital, while Vasco da Gama is the biggest city. Goa is known for its goldensandy beaches that stretch along the coast of the Arabian Sea. As a former Portuguese colony, this cultural influence is evident in Goa's world heritage architecture. Goa is also renowned for its places of worship and its rich biodiversity of flora and fauna.

Bogmalo is a small village located in a bay with around 2 kilo meters of sandy beach. It is located 4 kilo meters from Goa International Airport and 9 kilo meters from Vasco da Gama. The best time to visit is between November and March, with April and May being very hot(<https://www.tourism-of-india.com/goa/>).
