Description:

About the Author I was born in 1977 in Charleroi, Belgium. Charleroi is called "the black city" because of its mines but the inhabitants have hearts full of colors! I was the youngest child, reserved, very close to my mother, and with a vivid imagination. My mother was a storekeeper and many people were passing through all day long. I was discretely looking at them from far and according to their attitude, was imagining their conversations and was bursting out laughing!!!

Later on, building self-confidence thanks to theater and tennis playing, I developed one of my aptitudes: my sense of humor! Sense of humor is very powerful but you need to learn to control it. It helped me gain friends, protect myself from my enemies, and understand that the world can be looked at from a different angle. My sense of humor taught me to put things into perspective and to stay positive. Today I am a fulfilled adult, loving my wife and our two beautiful boys. My children are immersed in my sense of humor which I use to make them respect the rules at home more smoothly but as well to show them they can look at things differently. I warmly recommend to use humor without limits!
