Description:

From After a detour to launch a new Scottish Victorian romance series with The Bridegroom Wore Plaid (2012), dazzling romance writer Burrowes returns to the Windham sisters series (Lady Louisa's Christmas Knight, 2012). Fans and even newcomers alike will be happy to find Burrowes focusing on the recurring rogue Deene, or Lucas Denning, as he finally falls in love. Lady Evie Windham does not see marriage in her future because of a mistake she made with another man when she was 16. While fleeing from that incident, she had a bad fall from a horse. It took her years to recover, and she has not since ridden a horse. Because Deene intends to fight for custody of his niece, he reluctantly gets serious about finding a wife. Both are letting the past blind them to future possibilities, but, even so, they can't deny their mutual attraction. The machinations of Evie's family and the fun chemistry between the pair will have romance readers smiling. With each volume in this popular series, Burrowes creates another strong and unique story with memorable characters. --Amy Alessio
