Description:

From the Author Potential readers may wonder what distinguishes the For Seniors series from other computer books. The For Seniors books feature step-by-step instructions that tell the reader just what he or she needs to know to complete a specific task. The text is in a slightly larger-than-standard font, although not large print. Numerous illustrations of what you see on-screen accompany the steps.

These books don't include much discussion or broad context. (I really had to rein in my desire to tell people four ways to do everything - I like knowing lots of different ways to do things, and knowing more than one way is often practical.) That said, the truth is these books are not limited to a specific age group.

For the most part, For Seniors books are for beginners of all ages who just want to get something done. I always have in mind a friend who says, "I want to know how to tell time, not how to make a watch."

Take control of Windows 8 with these friendly, plain-English instructions

Some days, it feels like every device in your home is smarter than you are. Here's how to take back the power! This easy-to-follow guide helps you master Windows 8 so you can use your computer for both practical tasks and entertaining experiences. This book is not a course in technology; it's more like having a friend show you just what you need to know.

- Start here □ use the Start screen and apps, switch between apps, and adjust the settings
- Have it your way □ see how to perform the same tasks with your keyboard, touchscreen, or mouse
- The world of the web □ browse with Internet Explorer, search for information on just about anything, and learn to stay safe
- Socialize □ connect to social networks, chat via the Messaging app, keep important dates on your online calendar, and set up your e-mail
- Do fun stuff □ play music, watch videos, and copy photos from your digital camera to edit, share, and print

Open the book and find:

- Steps for setting up user accounts
- Tips on creating and changing passwords
- What you need to know about the new Windows 8 apps
- How to check for updates
- Fun ways to share photos
- Ways to locate a misplaced file
- Help installing printers and other devices
- What to do when things go wrong

Learn to:

- Use the Start screen, customize the desktop, and set up a simple network
 - Connect with family and friends via e-mail and social networks
 - Work with apps
 - Protect your data, your computer, and your identity
